
RELEASE OF FINAL REPORT OF INDEPENDENT REVIEW ON PREVENTION OF SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

Sydney, Australia
21 November 2018

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Today, the Australian Council for International Development (ACFID) released an independent report into the prevention of sexual misconduct in the international development sector, prepared by the Victorian Institute of Forensic Medicine.

Founder and Chair of the Adara Group, Audette Exel AO says Adara is proud to have participated in this important review.

“At Adara, we have worked for 20 years with some of the world’s most vulnerable people. Child protection has always been at the heart of our work. It is great to see the international development sector standing together to continuously learn and improve our work.”

As an ACFID member, Adara offered its full support for the review, and participated throughout the process including the reported incidents survey, the online survey and a focus group.
