
CODE OF CONDUCT

JULY 2023

INTRODUCTION

The Adara Group is committed to ensuring that it and the persons who work with it maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct and professional behaviour.

This Code explains the standards of behaviour expected of all Adara Persons (see below) in their work for the Adara Group and specifies the Adara Group's policy in key areas. It is designed to:

- reflect and enhance the Adara Group's values;
- assist all Adara Persons to understand their responsibilities and obligations;
- provide guidance on professional conduct and standards of behaviour expected; and
- set out a reporting and complaints process.

The requirements of this Code apply in addition to the requirements of any applicable laws. Where this Code is more stringent than applicable law, Adara Persons should comply with this Code. Adara Persons must also comply with all policies and procedures of the Adara Group.

GENERAL STANDARDS OF BEHAVIOUR

The Adara Group requires the highest possible standards of professional and ethical conduct from Adara Persons. In their work with and dealings on behalf of the Adara Group, Adara Persons are required to:

- conduct themselves in a manner that is consistent with the values of the Adara Group;
- comply not just with the letter, but also the spirit, of this Code, all policies and procedures of the Adara Group, and applicable laws;
- act in good faith, with care and diligence, and have regard for the best interests of the Adara Group;
- uphold high standards of personal and professional conduct, integrity and accountability, and encourage others working with the Adara Group to do so;
- treat all persons (in particular children and young people) fairly and with respect, dignity and courtesy, and without discrimination;
- not use language or behave in a way that is inappropriate, harassing, abusive, sexually provocative, demeaning, culturally inappropriate, or that is intended to shame, humiliate, belittle, degrade or exploit another person;
- undertake their work conscientiously, diligently, efficiently and to the best of their ability;
- provide a welcoming, inclusive and safe environment for all persons we work with (in particular for children and young people);
- encourage transparency in decision making and participation of those who will be affected by any decision; and
- when working in an international context or travelling internationally on behalf of the Adara Group, observe all local laws and be sensitive to local customs.

ANTI-DISCRIMINATION AND HARASSMENT

All Adara Persons are required to treat each other, and other people they come in contact with in our workplace, with respect, dignity and courtesy. In particular, Adara Persons must not commit any form of discrimination or harassment (including sexual harassment) in our workplace.

Discrimination is when a person, or group of people, is treated less favourably than another person or group because of their background or certain personal attributes.

Adara Persons must not discriminate against another person for any of the following reasons:

- sex, pregnancy, or breastfeeding;
- gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression or intersex status;
- race, colour, indigeneity, caste, tribe, descent, nationality, national origin, ethnicity, ethnic origin or ethno-religious origin;
- language, culture or social origin;
- immigrant status including displacement;
- religious belief or activity;
- political belief or activity;
- socio-economic status;
- trade unionism;
- marital or relationship status;
- responsibilities as a carer or family responsibilities;
- physical or mental disability or impairment, or neurodivergence;
- age;
- military or veteran status including service in the voluntary defence forces; or

- personal association with a person identified by reference to one of the above attributes.

There are exceptions from anti-discrimination law which may apply in some situations, for example, because of the inherent requirements of a particular job.

Adara Persons must not conduct themselves or behave in a manner that would be considered harassment or sexual harassment.

Harassment is any form of behaviour that is unwelcome (not wanted), or is uninvited (not asked for), or a reasonable person would have anticipated would humiliate, offend or intimidate someone.

Sexual harassment occurs when a person:

- makes an unwelcome sexual advance, or an unwelcome request for sexual favours, to another person; or
- engages in other unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature in relation to another person, in circumstances in which a reasonable person, having regard to all the circumstances, would have anticipated the possibility that the other person exposed to the conduct would be offended, humiliated or intimidated.

Adara Persons must consider how their behaviour is viewed by others that they are dealing with. Different social or cultural backgrounds may lead a person to look at the same conduct differently from another person. It is possible to commit discrimination, harassment or sexual harassment whether the conduct was intentional or unintentional. It is not a defence that a person did not intend to humiliate, offend or intimidate another person.

Adara Persons are required to familiarise themselves with and comply with the Diversity and Inclusion Policy. Adara Persons working in the Sydney office are required to familiarise themselves with and comply with the Anti-Bullying, Discrimination and Harassment Policy – Australia.

ANTI-BULLYING

Adara Persons are required to take reasonable care to ensure that they do not behave in a manner which may adversely affect the health and safety of others in the workplace.

Adara Persons must not engage in any form of workplace bullying. Workplace bullying is the repeated and unreasonable behaviour directed towards a worker or a group of workers that creates a risk to health and safety, including behaviour that is victimising, humiliating, intimidating or threatening. Single incidents of unreasonable behaviour are unlikely to be bullying but they can present a risk to health and safety and will not be tolerated.

Please refer to the Anti-Bullying Policy (and, if working in the Sydney office, the Anti-Bullying, Discrimination and Harassment Policy – Australia) for further details about what will constitute bullying and our expectations of Adara Persons in this area.

Adara Persons who becomes aware of an incident of workplace bullying should report it to their manager immediately.

ANTI-FRAUD, BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION

The Adara Group expects the highest possible standards of professional and ethical conduct from all Adara Persons. In their work with and dealings on behalf of the Adara Group, all Adara Persons must:

- act honestly and ethically, including in dealing with actual or apparent conflicts of interest between personal and professional relationships; and
 - maintain the highest possible standards of integrity in relationships with clients, donors, partner organisations, beneficiaries, service providers and government agencies.

Adara Persons must comply with the Anti-Fraud, Bribery and Corruption Policy and all Adara Group's policies and procedures for:

- accounting and record-keeping to ensure all financial transactions are accurately and fairly recorded;
- internal controls to prevent any improper or corrupt payments;
- engagement of agents, contractors and representatives;
- entertainment, gift giving and donations; and
- reporting, investigating and managing any suspicion or incident of fraud, bribery or corruption.

Fraud is any dishonest, unethical, irregular or illegal act or practice which is characterised by a deliberate intention to conceal something, whether by words, conduct or false representation, which may result in financial or non-financial loss to the Adara Group.

Bribery is the offering, promising, giving, accepting or soliciting of money, gifts or other advantage (often on an undisclosed basis) as an inducement or reward for doing something that is illegal, unethical, improper or a breach of trust in the course of carrying out an organisation's activities.

Corruption is the abuse of entrusted power for private gain.

Please refer to the Anti-Fraud, Corruption and Bribery Policy for further details and examples of what will constitute fraud, bribery or corruption, and our expectations of Adara Persons in this area.

Adara Persons must comply with the Anti-Fraud, Bribery and Corruption Policy in giving or receiving gifts and ancillary benefits. Please refer to the policy for examples of what gifts and hospitality are acceptable and the test criteria for whether gifts or hospitality comply with the policy.

ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING AND ANTI-TERRORISM FINANCING

Adara Group takes a strict and robust approach to anti-money laundering (AML) and anti-terrorist financing (ATF). We are committed to ensuring that we comply with the highest standards of AML and ATF practice across the jurisdictions in which we operate. We do this not only to comply with the relevant laws, but also to safeguard our resources for our beneficiaries and ensure we are not in any way supporting crime or terrorism.

Money laundering is the process of hiding or disguising the source of illegally obtained ("dirty") money to make it appear legitimate ("clean").

Terrorist financing is simply providing money to support individual terrorists or terrorist groups. The money may be proceeds of crime or money from legitimate sources.

Adara Persons must comply with the Anti-Money Laundering and Anti-Terrorism Financing Policies (which comprise of a global policy as well as country specific policies for Uganda and Bermuda) and all Adara Group's policies and procedures for reporting, investigating and managing any suspicion or incident of money laundering or terrorist financing.

Please refer to the Anti-Money Laundering and Anti-Terrorism Financing Policies for further details and examples of what will constitute money laundering or terrorist financing, and our expectations of Adara Persons in this area.

Personal interests include the Adara Person's direct interests, as well as those of family, friends or other organisations a person may be involved with or have an interest in.

Adara Persons must comply with the Conflict of Interest Policy. If an Adara Person believes or suspects that an actual, potential or perceived conflict of interest has arisen or may arise in the future, the Adara Person must disclose the matter to the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) as soon as possible in accordance with the policy.

Please refer to the Conflict of Interest Policy for further details, examples of situations where conflict of interest may arise and our expectations of Adara Persons in this area.

- exchanging money, employment, goods or services for sexual favours or other forms of humiliating, degrading or exploitative behaviour;
- engaging in sexual relationships with beneficiaries of assistance, since they are based on inherently unequal power dynamics;
- engaging children or vulnerable adults in any form of sexual activity or acts, including paying for sexual services or acts. Mistaken belief of the age of the child is not a defence;
- engaging in any commercially exploitative activities with children or vulnerable adults, including child labour or trafficking;
- physically assaulting a child or vulnerable adult; or
- emotionally or psychologically abuse a child or vulnerable adult.

CHILD PROTECTION

Adara Persons must conduct themselves in a manner which ensures children's rights and needs are always given priority and support the Adara Group's goal of ensuring children's safety and protection at all times.
